"It's all about being free and having fun, it's not about doing X or Y," says Lim, "It's just a game that wants you to be happy. And as long as you want to enjoy being a bad ass, then you can have fun. It's really simple." Valve Press Release: SANTA MONICA, Calif. -- October 2, 2013 -- This week, it's that time of year again: the return of the anticipated spectacle of Steambox&trade. But for many customers, this year will be the first time they open their lovely stocking to discover a Nintendo console instead of a PC gaming console. And that's all the more reason for us to be celebrating the enduring joy of immersive, multi-player video games for the past 20 years. Steambox&trade is the reason we haven't gotten a Wii U, but we'll take what we can get, right? And, if you thought our games were good enough, we've got a surprise for you! Valve announces a line of games for Steambox&trade in 2014. Included in this group is the return of our spiritual predecessor, Team Fortress 2&trade. This game is a multimillion-selling first-person shooter, which we've recently enhanced with the addition of community created maps, updates, and custom content. We're also giving away five PC copies of each and every Valve game on Steam to lucky winners this week. In 2014, there will be a new, streamlined iteration of Dota 2&trade, Steam's first-person RTS, which focuses on smart, strategic team gameplay that allows highly skilled players to compete in increasingly difficult arenas. Dota 2&trade is scheduled to arrive for Steam this week. Additionally, the former Half-Life 2 mod that took the world by storm, Team Fortress Classic&trade, is also returning to Steam this week! The Steam version contains all of the content from the original release, including the officially licensed Team Fortress hats, animations, and more. Anyone who buys the games through Steam is automatically entered in the drawing, so pick up your Steam copy of Valve's games today! Register here to be automatically entered in the drawing: The drawing will take place on Thursday, 11/21/2013. Enter before then if you don't want to miss out! See you in 2014! bff6bb2d33
